

Humor 6-2024

Classified Information:

In the Kansas City Star, an add in the personals column one day had 8 long words-reprehensible, idiosyncrasy, extrapolate, platitudinous, assiduous, plethora, euthanasia and desiderata.

It was signed by a Ronny Johnson.

The editor wondered what was going on, so he sent a young reporter to find Ronny Johnson.

Ronny turned out to be a high-school sophomore whose English teacher had told the students that she would give an automatic A to anybody who found those 8 words in the paper the first semester.

Lawyer Samuel I. Rosenman, who wrote speeches for a number of eminent Democrats, recalls that President Franklin D. Roosevelt opened his 1932 campaign with his famous Pittsburgh speech, calling for, among other things, a balanced budget.

Four years later, with the government deep in the red ink of anti-Depression spending, Roosevelt ordered a speech to open his re-election campaign-in the same city, in the same ball park, in exactly the same spot where he had pledged a frugal administration.

All he wanted from Rosenman was a good convincing explanation of his earlier speech.

Rosenman asked for a little time, reread the 1932 campaign kickoff speech, then called on the President to tell him he had found the only kind of explanation that could be made.

Roosevelt looked up eagerly.

“Mr. President,” Rosenman said, “the only thing you can say about that 1932 speech is to deny categorically that you ever made it.”

A Minnesota political leader was trying to clarify his response to a reporters' question.

“To the best of my knowledge,” he said, “I’m not sure.”

Q: Why did the man name his dogs Rolex and Timex?

A: Because they were watchdogs.

Q: What do you call a dog that can do magic?

A: A Labracabrador.

Q: Why do dogs float in water?

A: Because they are good buoys.

Q: What happens when it rains cats and dogs?

A: You have to be careful not to step in a poodle.

Two old ladies Dolly and Ruby were talking about their grandchildren. Dolly said, “each year I send each of my grandchildren a card with a generous check inside.

I never hear from them...never receive a thank you message.”

Ruby replies, “I too send my grandchildren a very generous check .

I hear from them within a week after the receive it.

In fact, they each pay me a personal visit.”

“Wow! How come?” remarked Dolly.

“Very simple solution... I Don’t sign the check.”

Law of Mechanical Repair:

After your hands become coated with grease, your nose will begin to itch and you’ll have to pee.

Law of Gravity:

Any tool, when dropped, will roll to the least accessible corner.

Law of Probability:

The probability of being watched is directly proportional to the stupidity of your act.

Law of Random Numbers:

If you dial a wrong number, you never get a busy signal and someone always answers.

Law of the Alibi:

If you tell the boss you were late for work because you had a flat tire, the very next morning you will have a flat tire.

Variation Law:

If you change lines (or traffic lanes), the one you were in will always move faster than the one you are in now (works every time).

Law of the Bath:

When the body is fully immersed in water, the telephone rings.

Law of Close Encounters:

The probability of meeting someone you know increases dramatically when you are with someone you don't want to be seen with.

Law of the Result:

When you try to prove to someone that a machine won't work, it will.

Law of Biomechanics:

The severity of the itch is inversely proportional to the reach.

Sign at a highway construction site: "Men working ahead-we hope."

Sign by a narrow mountain road: "Please do not overestimate the width of this road."

The easiest way to find something lost around the house is to buy a replacement.

The Society for the Elimination of Exclamation Points was recently formed.

It's members consist of those people who are no longer surprised at anything

Tundra_9-3-2023.jpg

Law of the Theater:

At any event, the people whose seats are furthest from the aisle arrive last.

The Starbucks Law:

As soon as you sit down to a cup of hot coffee, your boss will ask you to do something which will last until the coffee is cold.

Murphy's Law of Lockers:

If there are only two people in a locker room, they will have adjacent lockers.

Law of Physical Surfaces:

The chances of an open-faced jelly sandwich landing face down on a floor covering are directly correlated to the newness and cost of the carpet/rug.

Law of Logical Argument:

Anything is possible if you don't know what you are talking about.

Brown's Law of Physical Appearance:
If the shoe fits, it's ugly.

Oliver's Law of Public Speaking:
A closed mouth gathers no feet.

Wilson's Law of Commercial Marketing Strategy:
As soon as you find a product that you really like, they will stop making it.

Doctor's Law:
If you don't feel well, make an appointment to go to the doctor, by the time you get there you'll feel better.
Don't make an appointment, and you'll stay sick.

A guy walks into a bar, and there's a horse serving drinks.
The horse asks, "What are you staring at?
Haven't you ever seen a horse tending bar before?"
The guy says, "It's not that.
I just never thought the parrot would sell the place."

Q: What's an astronaut's favorite part of a computer?
A: The space bar.

Q: What happens when a snowman throws a tantrum?
A: He has a meltdown.

Did you hear about the circus fire?
It was in tents.

Two blondes were driving to Disneyland.
The sign said: Disneyland left..
So they started crying and headed home.

Tundra_7-2-2023.jpg