

2024 special golf formats

Two man alternate shot at Lincoln Hills, April 23

One player will tee off on even holes and the other player on odd holes. After the tee shot, the players will alternate shots until the hole is done. The team with the best score at the end wins.

Players should pair up when signing up for the round. If you do not select a partner, a random drawing of signed up players will be held to make up the remaining pairs. The handicap will be determined by averaging the two player's handicaps. If it is not a whole number, the handicap will be the next lower whole number. Extra prize money will be added to the prize money collected.

Six-six-six format at Bartley Cavanaugh, June 25

First six holes are played normal. Take the best score. Next six holes are played alternate shot and the last six are played best ball. Players should pair up when signing up for the round.

If you do not select a partner, a random drawing of signed up players will be held to make up the remaining pairs. The handicap will be determined by averaging the two player's handicaps. If it is not a whole number, the handicap will be the next lower whole number. Extra prize money will be added to the prize money collected.

Greensomes format at Ancil Hoffman, Aug. 27

Pick a partner. Two people play as a team and they both get to tee off. After teeing off, they will pick the better of the two shots and then they alternate shots into the hole from there.

If player A's drive is chosen, then player B would hit from that spot. Then player A would hit from the spot player B's shot landed. The alternate shooting continues until the ball is in the hole.

Players should pair up when signing up for the round. If you do not select a partner, a random drawing of signed up players will be held to make up the remaining pairs. The handicap will be determined by averaging the two player's handicaps. If it is not a whole number, the handicap will be the next lower whole number. Extra prize money will be added to the prize money collected.